Finding 1: adding a holder improves every post-custody axis; raising the threshold does not